HOUSING – CONGREGATE LIVING

SUBSIDIZED: Often referred to as ‘affordable housing;’ subsidized housing is a government sponsored economic assistance program that is designed to alleviate housing costs for those with low to moderate incomes.

INDEPENDENT LIVING: A community for individuals who do not require additional assistance with daily tasks. These facilities commonly provide easy access to services such as dining, entertainment and medical care.

ASSISTED LIVING: Housing for individuals who need some assistance with daily personal care tasks; e.g. meal preparation, medication management, dressing, bathing, or transportation. Facilities provide varying levels of care.

MEMORY CARE: A specialized form of care within housing that focuses on individuals with Alzheimer’s, dementia or other memory-related diseases.

SKILLED NURSING FACILITY: Housing for individuals who need care that can only be provided by a licensed nurse. Individuals who are seriously ill, in need of rehabilitation, or have rapidly changing health status may benefit from this form of housing.
